

A guy nabbed for dealing marijuana in La Crosse this week-end might have gotten away with it. But a cop thought 30 year-old Holton Carte from Milwaukee looked suspiciously like he was urinating on the side of a building on Pearl Street at 2:30 on Saturday morning. Not unusual at bartime in downtown La Crosse. But Carter was apparently just trying to hide the bag of pot in his hand. And the several bags police found in his pockets. Carter faces a charge for the drug dealing plus an additional charge for being close to a park and the jail while he was in the process.