

Chemicals Found At Site Of House Fire

Monday, 01 March 2010 13:19

The La Crosse man who died in a house fire overnight apparently had hazardous chemicals in his basement. A bomb squad was brought to the 1000 block of Redfield Street after the fire which killed James Oestreich. Police have ruled out the possibility that Oestreich had a meth lab in the house.