

Cops Suspect Beer-Swilling Teens in Mausoleum Vandalism

Tuesday, 06 September 2011 10:07

Police are looking for a couple of thugs they think did over a thousand dollars of damage at the Catholic cemetery in La Crosse. Cops have video of the two young guys who they say broke a big marble plate covering a vault containing the cremated remains of three people. The video shows the guys showing up on their bikes last Thursday afternoon, leaving, then returning with a couple of cans of Keystone Ice. To replace the marble plate will cost about 12 hundred dollars.