

Police Cite Naked Man Pushing Motorcycle

Monday, 03 October 2011 17:17

---

It was a pretty nice day on Saturday around La Crosse. Maybe a little chilly to be pushing motorcycles around without any clothes on. But that's exactly how David Miller was spending his Saturday evening. Right before six, La Crosse police say they could see him from the station. He was the one naked guy running around on the WTC campus. Apparently he was grabbing motorcycles that belonged to others and pushing them. They finally caught up to Miller sitting in the buff on one of the bikes. Didn't know why he was doing it. Didn't know where he was. He did know, however, that he'd smoked some of the drug, ecstasy. A disorderly conduct for Miller and a charge for damaging one of the motorcycles.