

A word of caution for students heading to UW-Stout in the spring. Freshmen must fill out a mandatory assessment of their drinking habits before they can register for classes. UW-L Chancellor Joe Gow is watching this and has some doubts.

Six students from the Menomonie campus have died in alcohol related incidents over the past three years and the school is trying to get tougher on student binge drinking.