Friday, 18 November 2011 13:12

Winona County Sheriff Dave Brand has released new information about the baby that was found on Labor Day...floating down the Mississippi River. A fisherman saw a white boat, possibly a Sea Rae with a cabin, anchored along a bank of the river. He saw a woman in her 30's to 40's alone in the boat...and she wasn't fishing. Brand says they are not looking to arrest the woman, but.....

He said the the baby, named Angel, deserves a proper burial and he personally would like to see closure in the case. As for how the baby died.....that's still being investigated.
