

The Freedom from Religion group is looking for some equal time. The group will counter a nativity scene set up in the capitol building in Madison with their own non-religious take on the nativity

Patrick Elliott is an attorney for Freedom from Religion. The group got their permit for a display yesterday and he expects it to go up today.