

Governor Scott Walker is banging the job creation drum again.....this time during his weekly radio address.

Walker says as a part of his Wisconsin Working program....he will double the amount of job fairs in the state.....add more staff to assist those that are unemployed and will connect more employers to those that are seeking work.