

As the La Crosse school district continues to hammer away at creating a new employee handbook, not only are the t's being crossed and the l's dotted....but single words are getting attention.

Superintendent Randy Nelson, says working back and forth with the La Crosse Education Association to make sure everything is out in the open for teachers and staff though the process...has been the biggest help.