

READ AFTER NOON!

A new Minnesota Vikings Stadium bill was signed at noon today....and Winona Republican Senator, Jeremy Miller, was asked who will all benefit from the building of a new stadium.

Also, the Minneapolis City Council still needs to vote to approve its share of the stadium financing. The city's contribution is expected to be $150 million for construction and another $189 million for operating costs over the life of the deal, not including interest payments. Governor Mark Dayton's signature on the bill kickstarts a 30 day timeline for the council to give its approval.