

You're not going to believe this. But the Wisconsin DOT is actually trying to make your Memorial Day week-end travel easier. The agency actually schedules some road repair projects to end before this week-end to ease holiday travel. No kidding, says Don Greul, project development engineer for the DOT. One of the projects is just north of Madison; done with work before Memorial day, starts up again after Labor day. Done before next winter. Greul says the interstate work south of Tomah was also completed just in time for this week-end's travel bubble.
