

Things are alot different now for Onalaska's Deb Markos. Being just a few feet away from one of the two explosions at the Boston Marathon, she says her homelife has changed dramatically now.

\(Click for Audio\)

She also says her TV stays on CNN news to keep up with any changes to the story....something she has never done before. Markos was running with a group of people from the area at the time of the blasts. None of them, including Markos, was injured.