

Budgeting in cities like La Crosse could get a lot more challenging in the near future. A key legislative committee in Madison has approved a measure that would force municipalities to cut property taxes by the same amount they raise fees. A move that leaves city council finance committee chair, Audrey Kader, exasperated

\(Click for Audio\)

The measure was approved as part of the upcoming two year state budget.