

Nothing says, "get your drunk on" like a holiday week-end. Certainly not to guys like the 22 year-old college student corralled by La Crosse police reserves in Riverside Park very early Sunday morning. Good and drunk, say cops. And just visiting from out of town. He was pretty aware of his surroundings but, probably by the virtue of being in the park, lost and drunk, collected a public intoxication warning. And then threw up all the way to De-tox.