

Union Rally in La Crosse

Monday, 14 February 2011 18:38

They're rallying in the capitol and they're rallying in La Crosse as well. Union reps are flooding the capitol in Madison this week, trying to blunt plans by governor Walker to cancel many collective bargaining rights of most public workers in the state. Tonight in La Crosse, union reps gather in Riverside Park at seven to rally against the proposed changes that would roll back decades-worth of gains made by unions in negotiations. The proposed changes from governor Walker would affect all public workers except police and fire fighters.
