An alert neighbor in La Crosse helped police foil a break-in this week-end. Cops say the woman called at around three in the morning about two guys prowling around next door. Police found one of the guys smoking in the front. They got a variety of answers about why the two were at the house and why they'd ripped a screen and broken a window. None of the reasons good ones. Police say the guys had some meth on them. Both 28 year-old Kao Vang and 24 year-old Matthew Symitczek got busted on burglary and drug charges.
