

La Crosse's fire chief could find out this week if he's got a new gig. The Cedar Rapids, Iowa city manager's office says the replacement for that city's outgoing fire chief will likely be named in the next few days. La Crosse chief Gregg Cleveland is among five finalists for the job. He's been the chief in La Crosse for five years. The Cedar Rapids fire department provides service for over 120 thousand people with only about fifty percent more firefighters than the La Crosse department has.
