

They have a playground to rebuild...

Village leaders in Rockland are discussing ideas for repairing or replacing the playground in Gaylord Park that was burned down over the weekend. The village's park committee will meet at the park tonight to view the damage. The 25-thousand dollar playground equipment just installed last fall was ruined by a fire, allegedly set last Saturday night by three teenagers.