

Just Tickets for Lip Ring Snatcher

Monday, 19 September 2011 12:34

A nineteen year-old college guy in La Crosse has caught a break after roughing up a classmate this week-end. Cops say Micheal Whayland was making moves on a young woman he's just met. Everything seemed to be going okay. Right up until he smacked the girl around, choked her, and, finally, ripped out her lip ring. Just an underage drinking ticket and disorderly conduct for Whayland, though, because the victimized woman opted not to press charges. Some additional justice perhaps in the end, though: Another guy broke Whayland's arm to avenge the woman's injuries.
