

A little more anonymity in campaign donations is getting pursued by one state senator. Republican from West Bend, Glenn Grothman says he wants to end the requirement that political donors giving over a hundred dollars list their employers. Grothman says his proposal would keep the--in his words--"narrow-minded and mean-spirited members of Wisconsin's Totalitarian Left" from targeting employers for the donations made by their workers.