

3 states could be pivitol in next year's presidential election. Wisconsin, Iowa and Indiana. That's according to RNC Chair Reince Priebus. He calls all 3 ground zero. And during a call with reporters this morning, he explained why these 3 states, especially the Badger State, could be crucial in electing the next President of the United States.

The former Wisconsin Republican Party Chair, says President Obama has led from behind for 3 years and says one thing...and does the other. Another reason the RNC feels defeating Obama one year from now will be easy.