

Hillview Expansion

Tuesday, 09 March 2010 17:46

The LaCrosse county board might have the votes to build a new assisted living facility at Hillview. But, board member Ray Ebert is one of the few who continues to believe the project is a bad idea. Ebert feels adding another county facility would only take away business from privately owned care. The board will take a final vote on the construction project next month after they get the final financial details.