

The state elections' agency has asked Milwaukee County prosecutors to consider charges against a group that tells Walker recall opponents to sign petitions as Adolf Hitler. The group is called Mines for Wisconsin, and it favors the proposed iron ore mine in Ashland and Iron counties. It's this kind of activity that really gets under U.S. Senator Ron Johnson's skin.

The group sent out fliers saying it's not illegal to sign recall petitions using Hitler's name. But Government Accountability Board director Kevin Kennedy said it is illegal to write false names on recall petitions and in the end, they won't be counted.
