

A criminal complaint involving 5 people who used to be close associates and aides for Governor Scott Walker details emails sent by Walker aide Darlene Wink to former Wisconsin Republican party Chair, Reince Priebus, asking about organizing a fundraiser for Walker. Priebus said this week that he was not aware of the email until he saw it in the complaint. Priebus says he's not concerned with the criminal probe.

According to the criminal complaint, Wink repeatedly emailed Brett Davis's campaign manager, Cullen Werwie, and asked Werwie to send campaign documents to others because she didn't want her name on it. Davis ran as Lt. Governor in 2010. Werwie is now Governor Walker's spokesman. Werwie was given immunity in the John Doe investigation.
