

The WIAA state basketball tournaments appear to be headed to Green Bay. The WIAA Board of Control has voted to accept a bid from PMI Entertainment, which manages the Resch Center, to hold the WIAA state tournaments there as early as next year.

WIAA executive director Dave Anderson confirmed the vote, but said that the Board also authorized him to clarify the understanding of the UW's most recent proposal regarding the availability of the Kohl Center in 2013 and 2014. The UW has said that it could not guarantee access to the facility due to conflicts with WCHA men's hockey in 2013 and a possible NCAA Women's Frozen Four in 2014.

Anderson said the WIAA would not consider using the Dane County Coliseum or the UW Field House in either of those two years until the Kohl Center became available.
