

There's making yourself at home and then there's what Thomas Sullivan did this week-end. La Crosse police say a guy on the southside found Sullivan sitting on his couch at about bartime Saturday morning. Guy doesn't know Sullivan, but there he was. Sitting. Laughing. Drinking a beer from the fridge. And then Sullivan got surly with cops when they showed up. They said the highly inebriated 42 year-old acted as if he'd done nothing wrong. He faces a couple of charges. Including one for resisting arrest.