

Are you ready for the November elections yet?

We've heard plenty about the presidential race, but the La Crosse area also has legislative races this fall. Later today, La Crosse County Republican Party chair Bill Feehan will make an announcement about the 32nd District Senate election. Feehan announced in January that he was forming a committee to explore a Senate race against incumbent Democrat Jennifer Shilling. No official announcements have been made yet in the other legislative races for La Crosse County.
