

This has not been Congress's 'finest hour,' according to an area House member...

Ron Kind of La Crosse says he would give Congress close to a failing grade over the past two years, because of the unwillingness of both parties to compromise.

Kind says his willingness to vote with either party helped him rank in the top five most independent members of Congress, in a recent survey. Number one was libertarian Ron Paul.