

Internal discipline for La Crosse cops busted on illegal hunting charges could be on the way. Officers Corrie Korn and Faling Yang face fines and prison time for duck hunting illegally with their guiding company in the Upper Mississippi Wildlife Refuge over two years ago. We asked police captain Jason Melby about in-house discipline

Melby says a May sentencing on the federal hunting charges would likely be taken into account when making decisions about Korn and Yang. Both officers have been placed on administrative leave.