A new parking ramp deal has been reached in the city of La Crosse. The city and Riverside Center developer, Don Weber have reached an agreement on a parking ramp and a third Riverside building downtown. Mayor Matt Harter tells us Weber will put up an office building with parking that will be worth $18 million. Weber will also front the city the $10 million that a new parking ramp will cost. The mayor says the city will pay Weber back and retain ownership of the parking ramp after that. Harter also says the deal won't have an impact on the city's tax levy.
