

Earlier this week we told you that Onalaska High School had received a gold medal rating as a top ten school from U.S. News and World Report. Now, La Crosse's Central High School has learned that their school had received a bronze medal ranking from the same magazine.

According to the report, 77% of Central students scored proficient or advanced in English and 81% in Math, respectively, both higher than the state average.

U.S. News has been publishing the Best High Schools list since 2007 as a way to recognize schools across the country that are performing well and providing them as a model to other schools as a way to inspire educators and communities to do better.
