A judge tells Christina Lorenz that going to prison for a drug death is part of her 'last chance' to straighten out her life...

Lorenz is sentenced to four years in prison, followed by nine years of supervision, for helping provide the drugs that killed her friend Tony Du Charme last August. The 38-year-old La Crosse woman says she feels 'very responsible' for letting Du Charme die, and not calling for help when he didn't wake up after smoking drugs. Lorenz denied having a role in disposing of Du Charme's body on a hillside after leaving the corpse in an apartment for two days. Three men were arrested on the concealment charge after Du Charme's death.
