

It's a new school year in the City of La Crosse and the school district is gearing up for new faces roaming their halls today. Superintendent, Randy Nelson, says they are down 9 staff this year from last, and they have struggled to staff one area of the district.

Over 50 new teachers throughout the district are ready this morning to welcome in students for the 2012-13 school year.