

The crack down on Wisconsin's roll your own smoke shops is back and this time.....the president said so. How?

President Barack Obama recently signed a federal transportation bill that classifies the operations as manufacturers, which requires owners either to obtain necessary permits and meet packaging requirements or remove the machines from their stores. Store owner, Wayne Johnson, said he has seen stores close already in the state....he's just waiting to see how long his 4 area stores can stay open with out the roll your own smokes.
