

Police Going Through Piles of Underage Tickets

Monday, 01 October 2012 12:10

La Crosse police are still counting underage drinking tickets written during the opening week-end of Oktoberfest. Several hundred is what they're estimating, the vast majority of them written in the downtown area and in the neighborhood around UWL. One officer anticipated it would take much of the week to count all of the underage tickets. Fine for one of those violations is over two hundred dollars.
