

As the cleanup continues out east from Hurricane Sandy, we, in the midwest, are hearing more and more about exactly how bad the storm damage is from those living on the coast.

\(Click for Audio\)

Craig Cooper with the American Red Cross and who lives on Long Island, says when you donate locally to the Red Cross, you can be rest assured that the money is going directly into destroyed neighborhoods and to help those in need.