

Finally, irrefutable proof that windmills are dangerous. At least, that's what Wisconsin state senator Frank Lasee figures he has with a new study on wind turbines from the Northern Maine Medical Center that shows proximity to turbines has a direct relation to negative impacts on health.

Lasee says he doesn't have a problem with wind generating turbines in general. He just doesn't want them to be subsidized by taxpayers or energy ratepayers if they're going to go places where they can cause people harm.