

The Department of Justice is taking some credit for the lack of illegal activities taking place at the polls last week as millions came out to vote. And Attorney General, J.B. Van Hollen, says the agents that were sent out to places like La Crosse, were just there to do their jobs.

\(Click for Audio\)

No major problems were reported at any polls throughout the state. Agents were posted in 13 Wisconsin cities.