

Small Greenhouse Going Up At Washburn Garden

Friday, 07 December 2012 12:54

With a chance of snow falling as soon as tonight in La Crosse, a local neighborhood group is quickly building a temporary greenhouse for a community garden.

The 'hoop house' going up at the Washburn Neighborhood garden near Viterbo is meant to protect plants that will be in the garden through the winter. The Mayo hospital will use food from that hoop house, and from a permanent greenhouse to be built next year at Western Tech.