

UW System Regents approved raising the non resident admission cap last week. Non resident tuition is about double what is for in state residents. Which UW-L Cancellor, Joe Gow, says does not seem to bother the international students on campus now.

\(Click for Audio\)

Regent John Drew supports the move, but he also urged the board to consider raising tuition rates for both non resident and international students to help cover the cost of admitting more in state students.