

It's a normal reaction to call police if you've been robbed at gunpoint. But kind of an unusual one if you're calling police to report you've been robbed during a drug deal. That's what La Crosse police say a man and a woman from Caledonia did after they got robbed trying to sell ecstasy near Weigent park in La Crosse. They say Alex Muleski and Laura Shefelbine reported the robbery. They say they were robbed at around eight on Sunday night. A fifteen year-old boy took their drugs at the point of a BB gun. The fifteen year-old and 17 year-old Christopher Leinfelder were arrested for the robbery. Muleski and Shefelbine both face drug dealing charges.
