

A landslide win for Audrey Kader...

The La Crosse City Council president got 73 per cent of the votes in a three-way recall race on Tuesday. Kader received 196 votes in the 11th district, to 42 for Jerome Gundersen and 26 for Gage Maurer. Local tea party activists wanted Kader removed from the council for reportedly leading efforts to reduce public input at council meetings. Kader also was one of several La Crosse School Board members targeted for recall in 1992, after the board approved a controversial school boundary map and busing plan. Kader won that election, too.
