

There have been many ideas that La Crosse residents have put forward with what should be built in and around the new northside elementary school. But superintendent, Randy Nelson, says they only have one focus right now.

\(Click for Audio\)

Some of the ideas submitted in surveys last year that were sent back to the school board include a community center, a senior center and a medical center.