

Reductions in the seven figures. That's what the La Crosse School District could face if there is no state aid in the governor's budget this year. But Superintendent, Randy Nelson says their used to it.

\(Click for Audio\)

Nelson says he will be paying a great deal of attention to the budget hearing with the joint finance committee and the Department of Public Instruction next Thursday.