

Illegal Tree Trimming Woman Still Cutting

Monday, 25 March 2013 16:38

A northside woman's tree-trimming fetish appears undaunted by the fines she's getting. La Crosse cops say the woman insists that there's an unwritten agreement in place between her and the city that allows her to prune trees along a walking trail on the northside. They say she was at it again on Saturday, pruning away with her pole saw along the trail, when a cop stopped her, reminded her that she was not authorized to perform such duties and handed her a 240 dollar ticket. The same fine she got last month when the same cop found her trimming several trees.