

Some Wisconsin technical colleges have still not recovered after state funding was stripped from them two years ago. Now, the governor's proposed budget puts a little more money back in for tech colleges. Western Technical College President, Lee Rasch says either way, they are looking better going into the next year.

\(Click for Audio\)

He says the last time they looked this good heading into another year, was 2001.