

Tomorrow's a day to look forward to in Wisconsin. The Tax Foundation measures April 20th as Wisconsin's Tax Freedom Day, the day at which you've finally worked enough to pay all of your federal, state and local taxes. It's not the latest Tax Freedom day in the nation, but it's pretty close. Minnesota and Illinois will reach tax freedom by next week, according to the Tax Foundation. Earliest Tax Freedom day in the nation is March 29th, shared by two states, Louisiana and Mississippi. Connecticut has the latest at May 13th.
