

Brunk House Looking to Sleep More

Monday, 28 June 2010 08:57

This week, the city council will consider whether to allow more beds at a halfway house on the La Crosse's northside. The Brunk House is looking to go from eight to ten beds. It's in Andrea Richmond's city council district. She supports the expansion. Calls the Brunk House on Harvey Street, a good neighbor that fulfills a vital function. Richmond says the Brunk House needs the extra beds so that residents have more time to transition from incarceration to freedom.
