

When the Wisconsin smoke free workplace law went into effect three years ago this week, conversations at the time from bars and restaurants was that they would lose a lot of business if their patrons could not smoke. Judi Zabel, Health Educator and 7 C's Coordinator explains how well it went with concerned business owners.

\(Click for Audio\)

Zabel says compliance with the Smoke free Workplace law is high but not perfect. She invites community members to learn more about local tobacco prevention efforts by liking the 7C's Health Initiative face book page.