

The West Salem School District is growing and space issues have become a hot topic there.

\(Click for Audio\)

Superintendent, Troy Gunderson says the school board has met with an architectural firm and have gotten some great ideas. They include a new middle school for sixth through eighth graders to be built on district owned land north of the present elementary school. Another option being floated around.....building a new middle school for fifth through eighth graders.